Highlight of the Quarter: HADS comes to St. Augustine

The Northeast Region hosted the first Heritage Awareness Diving Seminar (HADS) in St. Augustine in October, in partnership with the St. Augustine Lighthouse & Maritime Museum and the Lighthouse Archaeological Maritime Program, as well as the Northwest and West Central regions. Staff trained 7 diving professionals on the importance of underwater archaeological resources and how to interact with them.

Progress on Work Plan Objectives

- Provide programming for numerous schools and civic organizations including St. Johns County School System, Stetson University and DeBary Hall.
- Supported Flagler students and the Public History Program through a fall internship with Courtney Crum.

- San Sebastian Project –supported local preservation and volunteerism by offering a weekly opportunity to come learn about headstone recording and be a part of protecting a previously abandoned cemetery in West Augustine.
- Represented FPAN at the Southeastern Archaeological Conference in Nashville and at the Project Archaeology Leadership team meeting in Bozeman.
- Attended events in other regions including assisting with a CRPT in Apalachicola and film work in the Ten Thousand Islands.
